

McKinley County election rundown

Written by Gallupsun Staff
Friday, 09 November 2018 06:52

About 18,000 voters turned out in McKinley County.

Here are some of the county vote totals from the Nov. 6 election:

A total of 12,195 voted for Democrat Martin Heinrich for U.S. Senate, while 3,008 voted for Libertarian candidate Gary Johnson. Republican candidate Mick Rich received 2,864 votes.

Ben Ray Luján received 12,461 votes for the District 3 Congressional race, easily beating Republican Jerald McFall, who received 3,003 votes. The Libertarian candidate, Christopher Manning, received 869 votes.

In the race for governor, Democratic candidate Michelle Lujan Grisham received 12,913 votes to the 5,139 votes for Steve Pearce. Statewide, Lujan Grisham collected 392,215 votes to Pearce's 294,875.

All state legislative positions were unopposed, as was the representative for the Public Regulation Commission.

ARIZONA RESULTS

The votes in Arizona for the Navajo Nation reveal the reservation went Democratic by more than a 2-1 majority, while the off-reservation areas in both Apache and Navajo counties were even more Republican-oriented.

Election data in both counties stated a sample of the ballots on the reservation precincts showed heavy support for Kyrsten Sinema, the Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate.

McKinley County election rundown

Written by Gallupsun Staff

Friday, 09 November 2018 06:52

On Nov. 8, vote totals in Arizona showed Krysten Sinema losing by one percentage point to Republican Martha McSally.