Nearly $132 million counted

The Gallup City Council took action on a required certification of assets at the Dec. 11 regular meeting.

The item, spoken for by Chief Financial Officer Patty Holland, consisted of a required certification form that accompanies a complete and up-to-date listing of assets inventory for the City of Gallup as of June 30.

The inventory listing sorts the City of Gallup assets into five categories: land, buildings, equipment, infrastructure and miscellaneous improvements. The listing also specifies which city fund is covering the individual items.

Per the document, more than $98 million in assets have been counted for this fiscal year in proprietary totals.

The ending balance in city assets for 2018 was nearly $132 million, with more than $7 million in assets added this year in the form of equipment and infrastructure work.

The full asset list is available for viewing at the City of Gallup website.
