

PRC chair coming to McKinley County

Written by Staff Reports
Friday, 11 October 2019 10:10

Will address fire safety; Native American tax exemption forms

New Mexico Public Regulation Commission Chairwoman Theresa Becenti-Aguilar will make three stops in McKinley County Oct. 4.

Her first stop will be to make oral reports to her Gallup constituents.

That will be followed by a visit to Stagecoach Elementary School for a fire safety presentation where she will be joined by the New Mexico State Fire Marshal's Office and the Gallup Fire Department. Becenti-Aguilar and the State Fire Marshal's Office will review fire safety and prevention practices and bring a fire truck for students to explore.

Becenti-Aguilar's day will commence with a meet-and-greet with community members and businesspeople in Gallup where she will discuss the Native American Tax Exemption Form and other issues handled by the New Mexico Public Regulation Commission.

Staff Reports