WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. — Nearly $50 million was added to the Navajo Nation CARES (Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Stimulus) Act Hardship Assistance Expenditure Plan through Navajo Nation Council Resolution No. CS-74-20. After the Navajo Nation Council considers and then approves an application process it will give the Office of the Controller all necessary approvals to implement the hardship assistance program.

“With the enactment of the CARES Fund Hardship Assistance Expenditure Plan, the Navajo people will receive additional assistance for the hardships brought on by the coronavirus pandemic,” Speaker Seth Damon (Bááhaal, Chichiltah, Manuelito, Red Rock, Rock Springs, Tséyatoh) said.

The hardship assistance program will provide up to $1,500 per eligible enrolled Navajo tribal member who was over the age of 18 as of March 1 and $500 per eligible enrolled Navajo tribal member who was under the age of 18 as of the same date.

The program was established previously under Navajo Nation Council Resolution No. CJY-67-20 and then further funded through Resolution No. CS-74-20.

The Office of the Controller reported to the Office of the Speaker that the online portal to accept hardship assistance applications is currently under development. The final website will be based on the criteria and application process approved by the Council.

Legislation No. 0251-20, sponsored by Council Delegate Carl Roessel Slater (Round Rock, Rock Point, Tséch’izí, Lukachugai, Tsaille-Wheatfields), addresses the hardship assistance program’s eligibility criteria and application process. It will need the recommendation of the Health, Education, and Human Services Committee before it is finalized by the Budget and Finance Committee through its vote of approval.

Broadly, the purpose of the hardship assistance program is to provide emergency financial assistance for purchasing personal protective equipment, paying past due utility bills, rent, mortgages, isolation expenses, livestock-related expenses, education-related expenses incurred due to the Covid-19 pandemic and other financial burdens caused by the pandemic since March 1.

The draft hardship assistance program application was created to ensure all applicants provided enough information to ensure payments comply with the federal CARES Act.

Council Delegate Eugenia Charles-Newton of Shiprock thanked Navajo Nation President Jonathan Nez for enacting the hardship expenditure plan.

“Leadership has taken a step in the right direction helping the Diné people across the globe,” she said. “Stories were shared by many Diné people who were affected by COVID-19. Working together, putting politics aside and putting the people first is always good for the people.

“We will fight this monster that has taken so many of our Diné people and survive it together, helping each other along the way,” she said.

Delegate Charles-Newton added that the approved funds will assist Navajo people with past due rent, food, wood, pellets, hand sanitizer, masks and related supplies needed to help protect against the coronavirus during the winter.

Also enacted was Resolution No. CS-73-20, the Chapter Distribution Expenditure Plan. That program will provide further assistance on a local Chapter community level and will be administered through the Office of the Controller and the Division of Community Development

“We have local champions, and we ask for their help in spreading the word that assistance is available at the Window Rock level and the local level. Even those living beyond the borders of the Navajo Nation, our relatives and family members experiencing a prolonged period of travel restrictions and self-quarantine. There is help being made available,” he declared.

The Office of the Controller received added administrative support through the resolution to support the further development of an online portal and to ensure all expenditures are carried out in compliance with the federal CARES Act.
