A victory for reproductive rights

SANTA FE – Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham signed Senate Bill 10 into law on Feb. 26, repealing a 1969 state statute that criminalized abortion.

“A woman has the right to make decisions about her own body,” Lujan Grisham said. “Anyone who seeks to violate bodily integrity, or to criminalize womanhood, is in the business of dehumanization.

“New Mexico is not in that business – not any more. Our state statutes now reflect this inviolable recognition of humanity and dignity. I am incredibly grateful to the tireless advocates and legislators who fought through relentless misinformation and fear-mongering to make this day a reality. Equality for all, equal justice and equal treatment – that’s the standard. And I’m proud to lead a state that today moved one step closer to that standard.”

“The time has finally come to get this outdated abortion law off the books and ensure that we keep abortion accessible, safe and legal in New Mexico,” Sen. Linda Lopez, D- Albuquerque, lead sponsor of Senate Bill 10 stated.

“Thank you to Governor Lujan Grisham for signing this legislation, thank you to every one of my fellow bill sponsors and community advocates, and thank you to all of the voters of New Mexico who made your voices heard in the last election.,” Lopez said. “Abortion is a personal health care decision. We can hold our own moral values on abortion and still trust individuals to make their own reproductive health care decisions.”

“New Mexico is a state where we respect women and protect their autonomy,” Speaker of the House Brian Egolf, D-Santa Fe said. “I am glad that this fight for safe access to abortion in New Mexico has been won and look forward to further expanding access to all forms of healthcare.”

“Today feels very different than two years ago when the votes in the senate didn’t reflect the opinions of over 76 percent of New Mexico voters,” Rep. Joanne Ferrary, D- Las Cruces, said.

“Now we have signed legislation, repealing antiquated sections of law in order to ensure that women’s access to the full spectrum of health care options, including abortion, will continue if Roe v. Wade’s protections are undermined at the national level,” Ferrary said.

“Women in New Mexico and around the nation fought for generations to secure the reproductive rights that we have today,” Rep. Deborah Armstrong, D-Albuquerque, said. “Today’s bill signing ensures that we never go backward.”

“When women do not have safe and legal access to health care, it puts families, healthcare providers, and entire communities at risk,” Rep. Georgene Louis, D- Albuquerque said. “My deep gratitude goes out to every New Mexican who has shared their voice and their stories to help repeal this outdated ban.”
