

Intoxicated man goes on window breaking rampage

Written by gallupsun

Tuesday, 14 June 2016 11:48

By Dee Velasco

Sun Correspondent

At about 1:30 am early Tuesday morning, the Wells Fargo Bank, 300 West Aztec Ave, alarm was set off by an intoxicated male wielding a fire extinguisher. The suspect, Marcus Spencer, broke four windows in all, and could have easily walked into the bank – but he didn't.

Instead, sources say, Spencer, 26, then made his way across to A Turney's Inc., 207 S. Third St., and broke a window there, reportedly using the same fire extinguisher.

He then headed north down Third Street, breaking several car windows along the way.

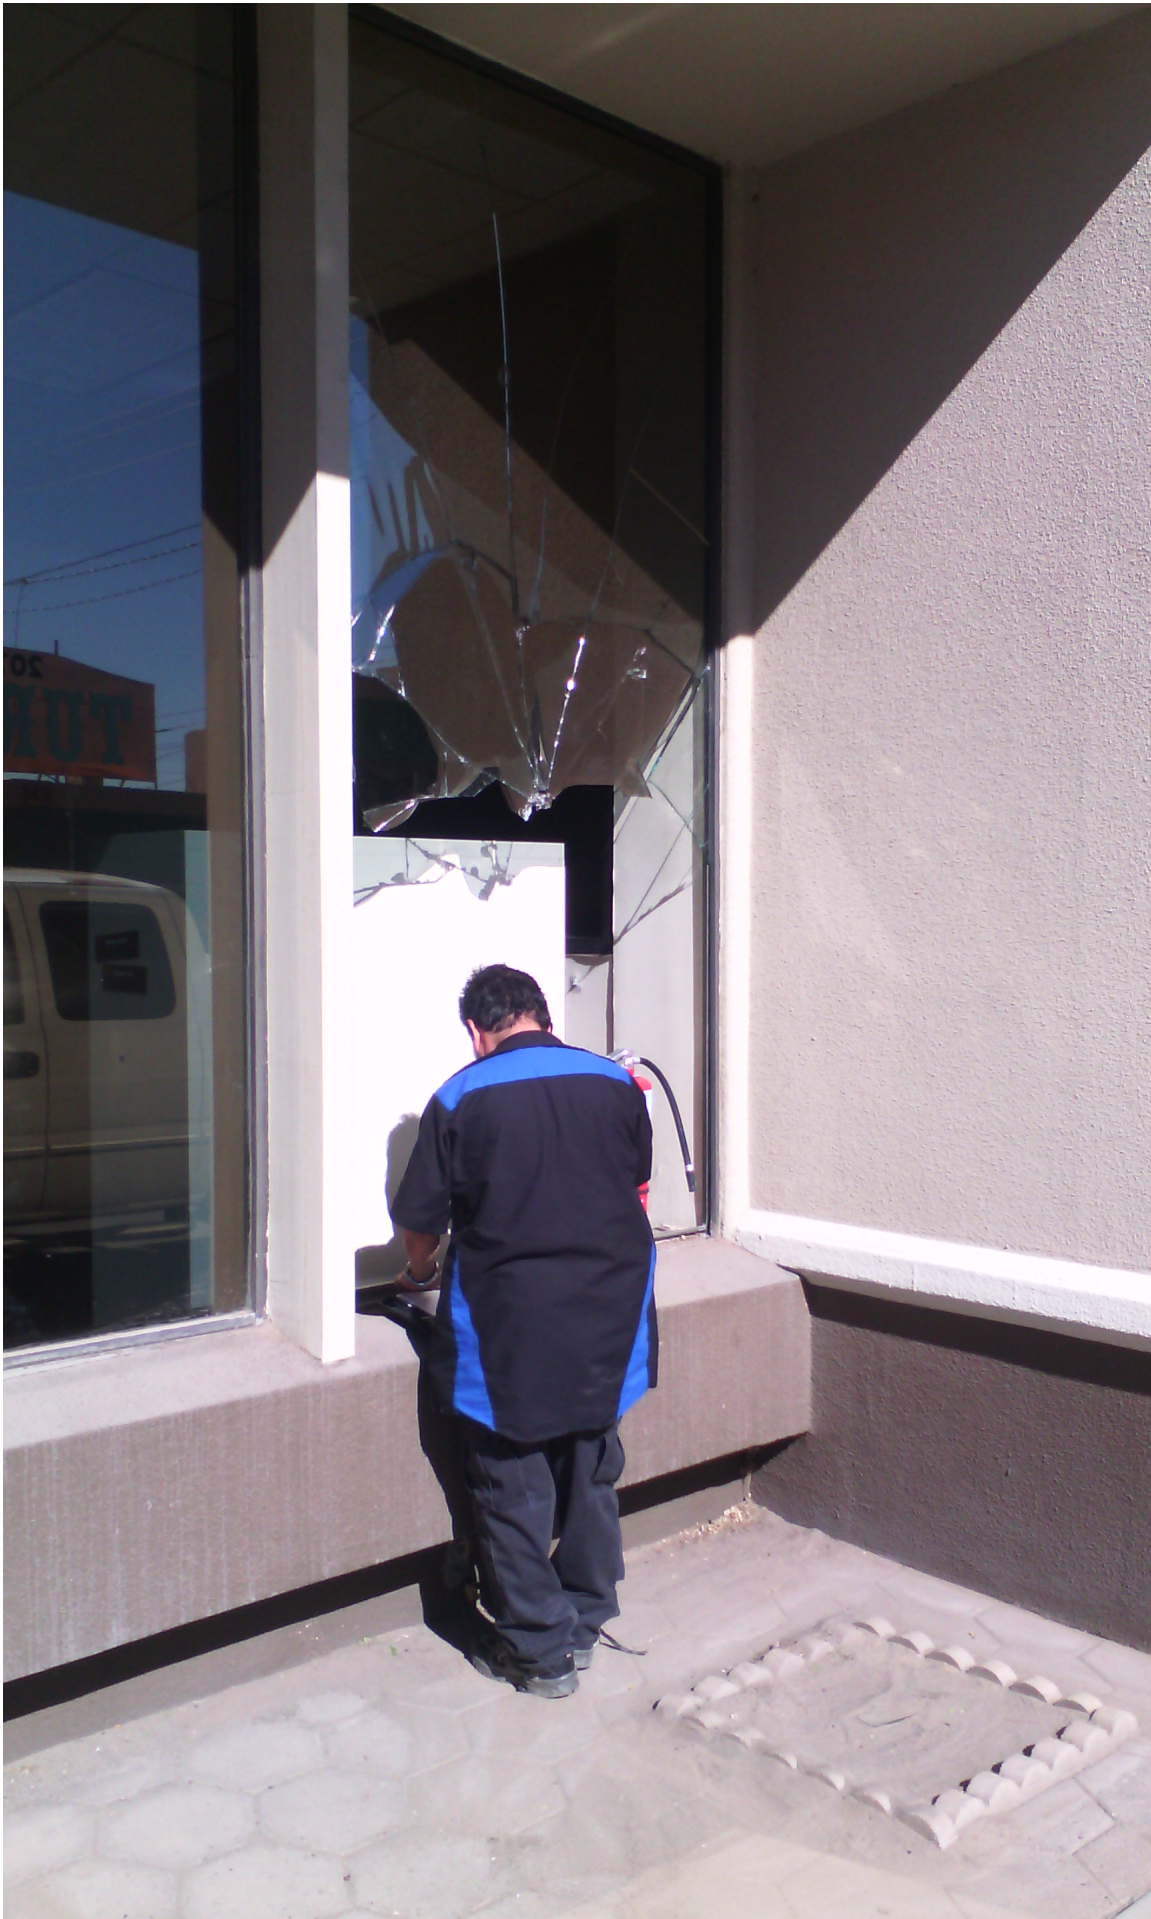

Next, he set his sights on the Rex Museum, 301 West Historic Highway 66, and broke out the frontage window with rock and trash can. From there, Spencer crossed the street and ended his rampage by breaking the side window of Richardson's Trading Post, 222 W. Historic Highway 66.

No items were reported stolen at these businesses, early reports indicate.

Intoxicated man goes on window breaking rampage

Written by gallupsun

Tuesday, 14 June 2016 11:48

Intoxicated man goes on window breaking rampage

Written by gallupsun

Tuesday, 14 June 2016 11:48

Intoxicated man goes on window breaking rampage

Written by gallupsun

Tuesday, 14 June 2016 11:48

Intoxicated man goes on window breaking rampage

Written by gallupsun

Tuesday, 14 June 2016 11:48

Intoxicated man goes on window breaking rampage

Written by gallupsun

Tuesday, 14 June 2016 11:48

This is a developing story, please check back for updates.