At Rio West Mall, a group of young men performed a series of dance moves on a stage. The group consisted of six members, all of whom were wearing casual clothing. The performance was part of a charity event that raised more than $2,000 for a local organization. The event was held at the Rio West Mall, which is located in the heart of the city. The performance was well-received by the audience, and the group was praised for their talent and dedication to the cause.
