TOSSED IN TSE

9/4, Tse Bonito

Apparently, getting thrown out of a moving vehicle is not that big a thing to a Klagetoh, Ariz. man who refused to tell McKinley County Sheriff's Office deputies who tossed him onto the street.

MCSO Deputy Jasmine Jaramillo said she was dispatched to the Giant Gas Station at Tse Bonito about 8 am on Sept. 4, where she met a middle-aged man. Medical personnel were treating the man, who had blood on his face.

Jaramillo reported that the victim was highly intoxicated but lucid enough to tell her who threw him out of the car.

"Yes, it was my friend but I will take care of it," he told her.

According to the victim, the car was going about 25 miles per hour when he was pushed out of the passenger side by his friend.

After this brief outline of the incident, the man reportedly refused to answer any more questions and was taken to a nearby hospital, where it was found he had a broken nose, a right eye fracture, a sore back and neck, and cuts on the back of his head.

According to the report, Jaramillo said without a name of the driver or any witnesses to the crime, there was nothing else she could do.
