Aggravated DWI

McKinley County Sheriff Deputy Jeremy Shirley said he was dispatched to Twin Buttes Road in connection with a car that had driven off the road with the driver passed out behind the wheel.

When he got to the scene, he found Archie Martinez, 46, of Indian Wells, passed out in the driver's seat. When he woke him up, he said Martinez said something to him, but he was slurring his words so much he couldn't be understood.

He asked Martinez to get out of his car, but when he did, he had so much trouble keeping his balance that he had to be helped. He was asked how much he had to drink and said nothing. But when Shirley pointed out that he could smell liquor coming from him, Martinez said he only had one can.

When asked if he would take a standard field sobriety test, Martinez said, "I don't think I should." He wouldn't respond when asked if he would take a breath alcohol test, which Shirley took as a refusal.

Shirley placed Martinez under arrest. He was booked into the McKinley County Detention Center. Shirley was unable to find vehicle insurance or a valid driver's license for Martinez.

Aggravated DWI

McKinley County Sheriff Deputy Christopher Escamilla said he was working a sobriety checkpoint on Highway 118 when Brent Brown, 26, of Breadsprings drove up and was told to stop.

Escamilla reported that Brown stared blankly and jerked the vehicle as he stopped. When he responded, Escamilla said he slurred his words and had problems putting his car into park.

When asked for his driver's license, he gave Escamilla his bank card. He was asked to get out of the car. Brown asked why, saying he had not done anything.

Brown was asked if he had consumed any alcohol and he said no. Escamilla pointed out he could smell liquor. But Brown still claimed he had not been drinking.

Brown agreed to take the standard field sobriety tests, but continued to ask why, since he had done nothing wrong. When asked if he would take a breath alcohol test, all he would say was he wanted his lawyer.

He failed the test and was charged with DWI. He was also booked on two arrest warrants. Metro dispatch confirmed two outstanding warrants, one out of New Mexico and one out of Arizona.
