ALBUQUERQUE – Darrell Desiderio, 42, and Ervin Yazzie, 41, both of Tohlokai, N.M., have been indicted for first-degree murder and other crimes of violence in Indian Country.

A federal grand jury in Albuquerque indicted Desiderio and Yazzie on July 26. The indictment charges Desiderio and Yazzie with first-degree murder, kidnapping resulting in death, and conspiracy to commit kidnapping.

The indictment alleges that Desiderio and Yazzie committed these offenses on June 7. The two defendants allegedly tricked the victim into driving them to a remote area where Desiderio allegedly said they could find women willing to party. When they reached the location, Desiderio allegedly held a knife to the victim's neck and told Yazzie to take the victim's keys. Desiderio then allegedly killed the victim by stabbing him with a knife and beating him with a golf club.
